

SAVE YOUR CHILD.

St. Vitus' Dance Getting Fearfully Prevalent.

Comes from Weak Nerves and Attacks Nervous Children.

Do Not Neglect Your Children's Weak and Irritated Nerves.

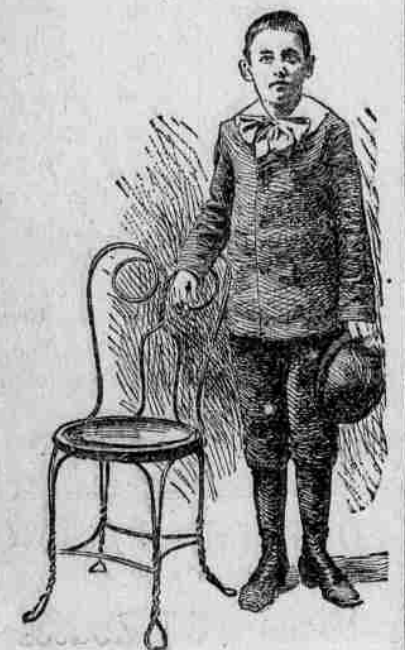

There appears to be almost an epidemic of St. Vitus' dance among children. The disease comes directly from weak nerves and an irritated condition of the nerve centers.

Its approach is shown by the nerves becoming weak, the child is pale, nervous, restless, irritable, does not sleep well at night, but tosses restlessly, talks in sleep, grinds its teeth, and has irregular appetite. There will be a twitching of the eyelids, the hand, the arm, the leg, or portion of the body, which spasmodic movements will gradually increase until the child is more or less helpless.

It is a very serious disease and should never be allowed to run, as the most serious consequences ensue in the utter wreck of the nervous system. It must be cured at once.

The cure of little Luke, son of L. C. Reed of Hedgesville, Ill., is wonderful and should be known to the parents of every nervous child or sufferer from St. Vitus' dance.

"It affords me great pleasure," says Mr. Reed, "to state that my son has been cured of St. Vitus' dance by the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is the best medicine in the world. My little son had scarlet fever, and was sick for about two years after he got over the fever.

LITTLE LUKE D. REED.

"He was very nervous, and got so bad that he could not hold his right arm and leg still. I employed a physician, but he got worse all the time. A friend advised me to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I got one bottle of the Nervura, and before he had taken half of it he began to improve, and when he had one bottle taken, the St. Vitus' dance was gone. It is wonderful the way this medicine works."

Watch your children, and if you detect any of the above symptoms, any weakness of the nerves, pale and yellow condition of the skin, loss of appetite, and observe the child growing thin, sharp-featured and puny, give it immediately the only sure cure for this distressing nervous disease, recognized by physicians, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It will cure the St. Vitus' dance, give the child strong nerves, good digestion, pure blood, and make it grow sturdy and strong.

It is not a patent medicine, but the prescription of the most successful living specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th street, New York City. He has the largest practice in the world, and this grand medical discovery is the result of his vast experience. The great reputation of Dr. Greene is a guarantee that his medicine will cure, and the fact that he can be consulted by anyone at any time, free of charge, personally or by letter, gives absolute assurance of the beneficial action of this wonderful medicine.

FETS OF THE BLUE AND GRAY.

Held a Fraternal Meeting in New York Saturday—Several New Haven Gentlemen Present—A Pleasant Occasion—Admiral of the New York Naval Veterans Installed.

This interesting event took place last Saturday at Webster hall, New York, where there was an installation of officers of Farragut post, Naval Veterans. Past Admiral P. S. Osborn presided and was assisted by Admiral Samuel Almon, rector of the Suffolk street Emmanuel Baptist church. The Confederate Veterans' association had been invited to attend in a body, and they accepted the invitation in the spirit in which it was extended. They were escorted from the St. James hotel to the hall by the Sons of Veterans of Farragut post, and as they entered the room they were given a reception that convinced them of the warm place they held in the hearts of the men who thirty years ago were meeting them in deadly battle to preserve the Union.

As they ranged up in double file around the room, they looked a representative body of New York business men. Face to face they stood with the battle scarred naval veterans. It was the first time in history that they had been received as brothers by either of the great war associations, and the strangeness of the situation was such that for a few minutes silence was supreme.

Then Admiral Almon escorted Commander Dickinson of the Confederates to the stage. As they stepped forward they were greeted with a genuine Yankee cheer, and Admiral Almon extended a welcome, simple but earnest, and when it was finished many an eye blinked suspiciously. Standing there in his naval uniform he reminded the Confederates of the battles both had been through.

Admiral Almon then made a short speech full of pleasant things for the old Confederates present. Commander Dickinson of the Confederate Veterans responded in well chosen words.

Yankee cheer after Yankee cheer mingled with the old Confederate yell greeted their patriotic sentiments, and the evening was passed as brothers. Old battles were gone over, with their rancor obliterated, and when the evening came to an end the Blue and the Gray swore eternal friendship.

Then thirteen of the Confederate veterans representing the thirteen states lined up opposite thirteen of the Union veterans, and a loving cup was passed first to an old ex-Confederate then to a Union veteran, and so back and forth down the line, each man as he drank making a short speech.

Before the veterans were received Admiral Samuel Almon was installed as admiral of the National Association of Naval Veterans, a position corresponding to that of commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic. This made it necessary to elect a new captain for Farragut post, a position he resigned to accept that of admiral-in-chief, and Commander P. S. Osborn was unanimously chosen. Admiral Almon was elected to his new position at the national convention held at St. Louis about two weeks ago, but was not present at that time, so the installation was held last night.

The following New Haven men were present: Captain W. E. Jacobs of Giddens Wells Naval Veterans association, John Jackson, commander of the same association; Edward Hubbell, paymaster; and the following members, William E. Condit, William Jones, Edward Carignan and J. J. Butler.

OUR FOREIGN TRADE.

A Large Order Has Come from Russia for Engines for Its Railroads. Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—The increasing ability of American manufacturers to compete successfully in the markets of the old world has just been demonstrated by the Baldwin locomotive works of this city, whose managers are rejoicing in a large contract for engines for Russian railroads.

For many years the Baldwin people have been able to sell their engines in Central and South America, in Australia, in Japan, and other distant countries, but they have never been able to secure a foothold in European countries, where the English type of locomotives has always been preferred to the American.

This prejudice has at last, apparently, been broken down. Contracts just received by the Baldwin works call for forty locomotives, twenty each for passenger and freight service. They are to be delivered within the least possible delay, and with the orders already on hand will keep the big Baldwin establishment busy for the rest of the year.

The names of the Russian railways for which the engines are to be built have been withheld by the firm, but as the government controls practically all the railways of that country, the contract may be said to have come from the government. This order, taken in connection with that given to the Bethlehem Iron company for large quantities of armor-plate for Russian warships, is significant as showing the friendly feeling of the czar's officials for American manufacturers.

THE PEOPLE'S COURSE.

The tickets of the People's course of entertainments to be given this year for the third season at the Grand avenue Congregational church are selling rapidly. Those in charge feel quite elated over the results so far as they can be known at present. All agree that while the two past years' entertainments have been very enjoyable that this season's course must be in many respects better.

The first is by the Mozart symphony orchestra of October 8. The only musical organization who play such obsolete instruments of the viola d'amore (14 strings), the royal trumpet, five feet in length, which was played during the reign of Julius Caesar. They bring with them Mme. LaRoche, prima donna soprano, said to be the only living performer on the chromatic harp.

October 17, The Boston Rivals. They are all true artists and well known through New England.

November 14, The Herbert Johnson Quintet club. They will be favorably remembered as having rendered a most enjoyable program for the Heptasophis early in the year.

The last date is December 5, and will be an illustrated drama by Alexander Black, called "Miss Jerry." All who have seen it expect it to be one of the best in the course. A few tickets remain unsold and can be obtained at Mr. John C. Bradley's office, 788 Chapel street, or of various members of the congregation. The price is one dollar, which includes a reserved seat.

MINISTERS' MEETING.

B. Fay Mills May be Engaged to Conduct Local Evangelistic Meetings.

There was a large attendance at the United Ministers' meeting in Center church chapel yesterday morning. Rev. A. K. Foster, pastor of Olivet Baptist church, read an interesting paper entitled "The Spanish Armada," which is a criticism of the work of Captain Duro, now in process of publication.

The matter of securing the services of the well known evangelist, Rev. B. Fay Mills, to conduct a series of meetings in this city was the chief topic of discussion. The matter was argued pro and con, but nothing further than appointing a committee consisting of Rev. J. H. Mason, Rev. Dr. J. E. Twichell and Dr. W. T. Phillips to consider the subject was done. The committee reported at the next meeting.
